

THE EXPOSITION.

FACTS AND INCIDENTS OF THE DAY NOTED.

A Great Crowd Expected To-day—Three Thousand People on the Grounds—Governor's Day—A Meeting of the Exhibitors—The Cotton Goods Trade of the World.

The crowds at the exposition yesterday indicated that the real success of this great enterprise has now really begun. There were over three thousand people on the grounds, and this fact when there was no special attraction, indicates that to-day there will be a great crowd, and this will be chronicled as the greatest day the exposition has known up to date. The presence of visiting governors and the fact that there will be some very special feature to-day guarantee such a crowd as will give the grounds a gala appearance and cheer the hearts of the managers.

The programme of the day and the social attractions of to-night will be found elsewhere in these columns. They will give to our visitors a fine opportunity of knowing not only what the exposition is, but what the people of Atlanta can do for the entertainment and pleasure of their friends.

has come and it will attract great crowds to the grounds. There are several very interesting features advertised. The distinguished visitors will all be duly honored by the presence of visitors and resident people at their reception this morning.

The exposition has on its best looks for their approach. Great progress was made yesterday and now it may be said that the show in each of the great buildings is complete in its wonderful variety of attractions.

The Exhibitors.

THEY MEET AND ARRANGE SOME AFFAIRS—A LIVE SET OF MEN.

One thing is certain, the exhibitors are a live set of men. They are evidently first-class business men who understand the value of system and order. The various states have organized associations and propose to have a word or two to say in furtherance of the success of the exposition. These associations have determined to make an effort to have a low rate of railroad fares established, and for that purpose have appointed delegates to a general meeting, which will be held on the grounds—at the press pavilion at ten o'clock this morning. This body will appoint a sub-committee, which will confer with the railroad officials on the subject. This is to be a very important meeting.

At a meeting of the Connecticut exhibitors, held at the press pavilion at ten o'clock yesterday morning, a permanent association was formed. Mr. H. A. Hull, of Stamford, was elected chairman and C. B. Wooster, of New Haven, secretary. The meeting discussed the question of tendering Governor Bigelow a reception. It was finally agreed that the Connecticut exhibitors should call upon Governor Bigelow in a body at the Atlanta home of the Williamson line company, and pay their respects.

It will be remembered that Governor Bigelow will be the Williamson's guests during his stay in the city. Mr. F. D. Whiting was appointed to procure suitable badges for the occasion. The following gentlemen were appointed a committee to represent Connecticut in the meeting of committees from several states in an effort to secure low rates of passenger fares to Atlanta: William Markham, J. A. Hayden, J. G. Headley, John C. Peck and G. S. Meacham. The association then adjourned until three o'clock. On reassembling at three a committee was appointed to meet Governor Bigelow, after his arrival in the city, and notify him of the organization of the association. At nine o'clock the association will convene at the Markham house and have a report from this committee. Governor Bigelow will be escorted to the grounds at ten o'clock by the association.

The gentlemen who have charge of the Florida exhibit and several visitors from that state held a meeting in the reading room of the Florida building at 4 o'clock yesterday to consider what steps should be taken in reference to receiving the governor of the state on his arrival in the city. Judge Hayden was elected chairman and Joseph Vogle secretary. A committee of six composed of the chairman, secretary, Commissioner Yonge, of Pensacola; Mr. William Markham, Dr. McVay and D. S. Place, were appointed a committee to welcome the governor to the city, and act as his escort during his stay in Atlanta. The committee will meet at the Markham house this morning at 9 o'clock.

At a meeting of the Illinois exhibitors association yesterday, the following gentlemen were appointed to represent the association in the meeting to-day to take steps to secure low railroad passenger rates: S. Burts, T. O. Kenyon, J. E. Frost, H. V. Christie and J. W. Brigham. Mr. G. O. Kenyon was elected treasurer to fit a vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Goodlader, who will return to Rockford, his home, to-day.

The Pennsylvania association had a meeting yesterday at which the details of the reception which it is proposed to tender Governor Hoyt, were further arranged. It has not been determined when the reception will be given—possibly to-night. It is said that Governor Hoyt will leave the city for his home at six p.m. to-morrow. Therefore a reception for to-morrow is out of the question. The following gentlemen will represent this association in the general meeting this morning: Z. Taylor Rickards, C. A. Hoops and R. R. Greenfield. The association meets at 11 o'clock this morning.

The Ohio exhibitors will be represented at the meeting this morning to petition the railroads for rates.

Ohio will be represented at the meeting to-day by O. G. Brown, Samuel Smith, W. J. O'Neal, Samuel Miller and Mr. Valentine of the Southern World.

The Cotton Goods Trade of the World.

The secretary of state has just issued a letter epitomizing the reports of consuls from all parts of the world upon the conditions of the cotton goods trade in their several districts and upon the wants of each people in yarns and manufactures. The object of this work, as the secretary sets forth, is to give to our cotton manufacturers a complete exposition of the present wants of foreign markets and future chances of developing and extending this great American industry.

It is a valuable and instructive work of about four hundred pages, comprising the secretary's analysis of some one hundred pages, with an appendix showing fully the cotton goods trade of England for 1880, the present manufacturing conditions of that country, the wages paid, hours of labor, products and profits thereof, the dividend declared, etc.

Correspondence New York Times.

The cost of producing cotton is a subject more frequently discussed than any other among all persons in the south. Probably the farmer himself, even when he discusses it, thinks about it less and thinks about it less than those whose interest in the matter is less immediate and direct.

The cost of grain, corn, tobacco and compressed cotton, the countries who sell cotton on credit for a term of fifty or 70 per cent advance on cash prices, the warehousemen, the shippers, the manufacturers are reasonably sure of their profits, but the cotton grower, who approaches the selling price, the farmer's only gain is found between the two. It is with him an insoluble problem. Nothing that he can do will affect the market price, except a small percentage of profit to him which that price represents.

But Georgia's citizens have done nobly; they have set themselves right before the country by most liberal individual action, and what is true of her legislature is true of all the southern states and their legislatures.

Then follows in order of contents two consular reports thereupon, enumerating the existing advantages and disadvantages of each market, the past and present supply, and the wants in sorts, styles, sizes, quality, etc. This part is a complete text book for our manufacturers. Then follows a supplement giving first, the opinions of British and other consuls from their standpoints and interests, in contradistinction with our own, on their industry and trade; second, a table of 30 pages of the "Tariffs of the World of Cotton Goods," which has been prepared at the department of state from official and authoritative data and followed by tables of values of money and weights as quoted in the said tariffs, showing the equivalents in United States values and weights for the benefit of American cotton exporters in ascertaining competitive prices current. These reports of consuls have been accompanied by samples of the present supply in each consulate district, and descriptions of the wants of each people of the world, which forms the most valuable illustration of the world's consumption and necessities in cotton goods that has ever been presented in any form. It gives in fact to American manufacturers and exporters, in compendium, what it has taken Great Britain 75 years, to learn by experience of reverses as well as success.

Such a work has never before been attempted.

Two valuable samples, with the reports to be sent immediately by the department of state to the Atlanta exposition for exhibition there and examination generally by all interested therein.

Captain Bogardus.

Captain Bogardus and his two sons added a great attraction to the entertainments on the grounds yesterday by their wonderful exhibition of skill with the rifle and shot gun.

The boys are simply phenomenal in their skill. One is seventeen and the other only six years old. The elder excels with the rifle feats which the most famous rifle marksmen plume themselves upon. He strikes nicks, dime-sized pencils thrown in the air; breaks balls thrown from hand or trap with almost unfailing accuracy. The little fellow is even more remarkable than his brother. He handles the rifle like an old expert, and aims with a mechanical precision at whatever is presented. He can break a glass ball in his father's hand twenty feet off every time without danger.

The captain with his shot gun displayed the skill which has made him famous, and it seemed impossible for him to miss his aim. His rapidity and accuracy combined made the exhibition remarkably interesting. This afternoon he and his sons will give another exhibition with some changes in the programme. The shooting will begin at three o'clock at the west end of the main building and will be free to all who enter the exposition grounds.

Georgia's Exhibit.

is fast getting into shape in the center of the main building up stairs. It represents all the best features of the state fair and the fine collection of vegetable and mineral curiosities hitherto exhibited in the department of agriculture. Besides there are specimens from all parts of the state showing the remarkable natural wealth and capability of Georgia soil. The display will soon be all arranged and will be one of the most attractive on the grounds.

Exposition Notes.

The fine art hall is a daisy.

The exposition hotel is lively.

Several new correspondents have arrived.

To-day there will be ten thousand people on the grounds.

The Fifth Artillery band will give its best music to-day.

Two hundred visiting girls are working with the various exhibits.

Mr. John Ryckman is an old editor and therefore good at anything he attempts.

The privileges let by the exposition are mixed up, and some one is getting illegitimate grease. It would be well for the executive committee to have this matter straightened at once.

All the public school children who are at the exposition deposit by 9 o'clock this morning will be carried to the grounds and returned for only thirty cents. It will be a great opportunity for the children.

Full length portraits of General Alfred Austell and H. I. Kimball hang side by side in the art gallery. General Austell's face would look a shade more lively if he had let Kimball handle his finances while before the portrait was taken.

Colonel Charles D. Owens, of the S. F. and W. railroad, is raising a flag pole that is so long it would fit between the ground and the sky.

Charlie says he is going to let it out gradually so the people can stand it.

The Eagle and Phenix, of Columbus, Ga., have a magnificent display at the exposition. One motto over their display attracts attention. It refers to the fact that the factory was built exclusively with southern capital.

One of the most beautiful exhibits in the main building is that of Mr. W. E. Durmatt of holiday cards. The exhibit is unfortunately placed on the south side aisle of the east wing and does not meet with the attention it otherwise would. Mr. Durmatt is also state agent for the Crocker water filter, which is in practical running order at his stand just behind the large and beautiful display of E. Jencks & Co.

The following persons have subscribed, each one dollar, to the Garfield monument fund, at the stand in the exposition building: John H. Hall, G. B. Harris, E. W. Jones, H. I. Kimball, J. H. Nichols, E. F. Conover, J. W. Rose, A. Huntington, G. M. McKinnon, Ga.; A. G. Pardee, H. L. Pardee, H. E. G. Pardee, W. B. Postwick, D. E. Marsh, J. N. Leonard, J. S. Pardee, Connecticut; John McConnell, Ohio; W. Lowry, South Carolina; F. Q. Sevier, Arkansas.

What the Papers Say.

Boston Commercial Bulletin.

Already there is enough to keep a thoughtful person interested for days, although it is still but a few weeks since the fair opened.

Some of the southern papers, and yet there are some that have not even appeared in Atlanta yet, some of the southern papers, and I regret to say, a few western papers, still allow their correspondents to enclose the true news in their telegrams to give it as an excuse for criticising the management.

Perhaps these gentlemen mean well enough, but they don't know, and more than that, they don't take the trouble to see that they don't make the mistake of making a mistake-hunting for criticism, and in attempting to be independent they do.

But my observation leads me to believe that the headstrong utterances of the people of the north and no more than half the people of the south, and no more than the semi-literate of the people of the north regarding the fairness of the action of the Georgia legislature in expelling the sentiments of the people of that state when it refused an appropriation, was explained that a constitutional barrier stood in the way.

"Constitutional fiddlestics!" said a prominent Georgia to your reporter. "I will examine the note, and you will find among the names of those who voted for the appropriation whose intelligence and character cannot be questioned; who were as capable of judging of the constitutionality of the bill as any voter in the state." "I will be sure to tell the press that the bill was contrary to law, the trouble was just here, first, an opposition against Mr. Kimball, which was entirely unfounded, and which never existed in the mind of anybody who even knew his second, petty jealousy of Atlanta on the part of country members, and third, the senseless (it seems to northerners) determination of a Georgia legislature not to vote for an appropriation of any kind.

An intelligent son, writing to a northern newspaper, told the whole story so well that I will let him tell it.

"The Doctors Disagree."

Its action is prompt, thorough and lasting. Don't take pills, and other mercurials that poison the system, but by using Kidney-Wort restore the natural action of all the organs.—New Covenant.

the lack in France of trustworthy statistics, based on an intelligent system of farm book-keeping. But men in the cities, who live by handling or dealing in cotton, or by occupations to which the great staple crop pays tribute, as does to nearly every man in the country, are the same, are ready to give you figures of the cost of cotton-raising. There is hardly a business man in the country who will talk willingly on this subject, giving figures, estimates, and instances with convincing readiness and fulness. But the listener will do well not to yield too easily to the temptation to accept the figures given.

Such a work has never before been attempted.

AFFAIRS IN GEORGIA,
 AS REPORTED BY THE CONSTITUTION'S CORRESPONDENTS.

A Circus Bow at Cartersville—One Man Killed and Several Wounded—The Fall Trade of Athens—The Northeastern Railroad Extension—A Cat's Curious Offspring

By Mail and Wire to The Constitution.

CARTERSVILLE, October 25.—Last night about 12 o'clock and just before Coup's circus left for Rome, a serious shooting affray between some of the circus men on one side, and some of the deputy marshals and others on the other, occurred. A negro, named Henry Clark, was shot in the head and instantly killed. Others of both sides were badly beaten and bruised. Two of the circus men, I learn, were shot. I have not been able to learn just how the difficulty began, but whisky is supposed to have been at the bottom. It has not yet been ascertained what particular person or persons did the shooting. The testimony taken before the jury of inquiry failed to show who killed the negro. The unfortunate occurrence is greatly deplored and condemned by all good citizens.

A negro woman, named Susan Durham, was found dead in her bed this morning. Cause of death unknown. Considerable excitement prevailed on the streets this morning, and it was soon ascertained that a lion and a bear were at large in the city, and that the lion was pursuing the bear. The bear was overtaken by the lion near the residence of Mr. T. W. Milner and killed. The lion is still at large and as I am informed is now in the city. It is not believed that he will attack any one if unmolested, and therefore no considerable excitement prevails. Mr. James Douthit, one of our oldest and best citizens, died yesterday. Mr. John Calvin, of Cincinnati, Ohio, died this morning after a short illness. He came to Cartersville about two months ago, his purpose being to engage in the iron and mining business. Mr. Calvin, during his stay in Cartersville, made many friends, who deeply regret his death. His remains will be sent to Cincinnati—Rev. P. H. Brewster, of Alabama, but formerly of this city, is here on his way to his old home, in Cherokee county, near Canton.

EUFAULA, October 24.—Much excitement was created this morning by the circulation of a rumor to the effect that H. R. Jordan and four negroes were plotting to burn and劫持 (kidnap) W. C. Reese's store. For several weeks Reese has been losing goods in an unaccountable way, and finally his suspicions were directed to Jordan, who was one of his clerks. A watch was set and last night the gang was caught. It appears that Jordan had keys to the store and entered and handed out the goods to the negroes, and while this was going on they were surprised and captured. Jordan at once made a clean breast of the whole business and so did the leading negro, J. J. Daniel. The other two negroes deny complicity in the matter. They are supposed to have been the sentinels set to give the alarm. All are now in jail. Jordan, who is well connected, is trying to compromise out of the affair. He drinks and indulges in the opium habit and his friends claim that he is not responsible for his misconduct—Rev. Theo. Read, of Thomasville, Ga., has been called to the Episcopal church—Rev. Dr. S. A. Goodwin, it is thought, will be invited to supply Mr. Wambold's place at the Baptist church—Father Ryan will probably be there, but goes to Biloxi.

The Euufaula Baptist association held their annual session yesterday. It was well attended and raised $1,000 for mission and educational purposes. It keeps a young man at Howard college, sending one to supply the place of another as each graduate—Mr. Jemison, a Central railroad section master, was thrown from a fall car in town a few days ago and had his leg broken. Mr. Wiston Jay continues quite ill. Mr. John McDaniel, a boy from a long summer's trip. This morning afternoons at 5 o'clock, Mr. Thad Douglass, wife Miss Carrie Malone, and Thursday evening Mr. E. B. Tullis wife Miss Cornelia Barnett—all of this city.

ATHENS, October 26.—Athens has presented quite a lively appearance lately. College has opened; the fall trade is in its zenith; king cotton has taken the town, and to crown it all the great Faverly circus will be here Thursday, and Faverly's "Widow Bedott" Friday. The hotel and shop-chapel fund only needs about two hundred dollars to complete the fifteen thousand dollars for its erection—Mr. E. T. Bishop, a member of the class of '79, died in the city last Thursday, after a lingering illness, contracted by hard study. While at Princeton it is said that he would invariably study eighteen out of twenty-four hours.—The Northeastern extension will have been completed to Clarksville by January 1, and to Tallulah falls by July 1. So precise is the director.—The Commercial hotel, the new Williams, has recently opened, and is certainly an ornament to the city. It presents every comfort and requirement of a metropolitan hotel. It is under the personal management of Mr. Lloyd Williams, which alone is a guarantee of its success.

CONYERS, October 26.—Dr. H. H. McDonald had the misfortune to lose his stock of dental instruments, together with about $350 or $400, etc. He had them in his buggy at Jonesboro last Friday evening, the 21st instant. The advantage when the doctor was absent to lift it up. The doctor is a man with a large family and no other means of support, being unable to do other work or business on account of feeble health. The loss falls heavily on him. Any information of the thief or goods will be liberally rewarded.

GREENSBORO, October 26.—There is an exhibition at one of our drug stores a curious little animal, the offspring of a cat. Its fore legs and the hind ones long. It rests on its haunches and walks like a rabbit or squirrel. It is supposed to be a hybrid, but there is a difference of opinion about that. It resembles the Marmot and kangaroo in some respects. It is not a cat—then who can guess what it is? Shall we wait for Dr. Park to decide?

GAINESVILLE, October 26.—Married, at the residence of J. R. Boone, on the last Sunday night, Mr. John J. Powell, of Atlanta, to Miss Simmons of this country.

Overcasts are common here. Weather is moderate for time of year, however. Our circus delegation have returned in good order.

QUITMAN, October 24.—Frank Dukes, a lad of 13, son of a respectable planter of this county, was out hunting last Saturday with a young brother. Becoming tired he decided to put the dogs beside a log to rest. The hammer struck the log, and the gun went off. The lead of the squirrel shot passed into his temple and blew the top of his head off, producing instant death.—A protracted effort is in progress at Oak Grove church, Rev. J. A. McClesky, of Valdosta, being present.

Rev. W. J. Robinson, member North Georgia Conference, says: Have taken S. S. for a clear case of Eczema, eruption has disappeared and I am well.

ATLANTA, GA., OCTOBER 27, 1881.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer gives the estimates of twenty cotton dealers of its city as to the amount of the incoming crop. The lowest of these estimates is 5,175,000 bales, and the highest 6,505,000.

The majority for Foster in Ohio is only 1,478 votes. The greenbackers and prohibitionists polled over 23,000 votes. But his plurality over Bookwalter is large enough to show that the democratic party needs reorganization and better management in Ohio.

The attendance at the exposition was better yesterday. Many of our business men were out, and we trust they will continue to visit the grounds. It cheers up the exhibitors and makes the executive committee feel better. They have to foot the bills, and it is as little as our people can do to go out and see what has been done for the city, the state and the south. People from a distance will have no better time to come and see the display than during this pleasant winter.

The New York Commercial Bulletin, in noticing ex-Governor Morgan's nomination as secretary of the treasury, speaks of "his experience in Wall street." Was it his experience in Wall street that made certain parties so persistent in pressing his acceptance of the office? The reports in circulation are that he was a bull in Wall street, and a large owner of fancy railroad stocks, whose price is only kept up by an "easy" money market, and the bulls of Wall street are always clamorous for help from the secretary of the treasury when a tight money market pinches their corns.

The Philadelphia Times thinks that Blaine's present position in the cabinet is a very delicate one, and that he holds on only from a diplomatic appreciation of the fact that it would damage him to retire in unbecoming haste after the president's request that he would remain for a time. It says that the president only wants to keep Blaine in until after the November elections; that "Arthur" knows the longer he can keep Blaine, the better it will be for Arthur; Blaine knows that the sooner he can get out, the better it will be for Blaine, except that he must not wantonly provoke his dismissal."

It appears that exclusive military government still prevails in a portion of Uncle Sam's extended dominions, and it is a portion that has never been in rebellion. We call to Alaska, the icy acquisition for which the United States paid Russia seven millions of dollars. In the settled part of this extensive territory, including the town of Sitka, Commander Goss, of the United States war vessel Wachusett, maintains order and administers justice according to his own rules or discretion. Outside of that locality, the Alaska commercial company provides the only existing government. There is no territorial organization, but it is said that a bill providing one will be introduced during the coming regular session of congress. Perhaps the present message may better explain the anomalous condition of affairs up there.

As was apprehended by many when the pension arrears bill was passed, the amount of claims made under it is enormous. The estimate at the pension office is that the additional expenditure for pensions, provided for by the act, will this year amount to forty millions of dollars, swelling the pension expense from thirty to seventy millions of dollars. And there are still a large number of claims not yet passed upon, which will no doubt add largely to this great amount. It is thought that the commissioners of pensions will ask for an appropriation of one hundred millions for the next fiscal year. Congressmen of both parties foresaw a very great increase of expenditure on this account when they passed the pension arrears bill, but neither would take a stand against it for fear of injury to the party from such a course.

The peremptory refusal of ex-Governor Morgan to accept the secretaryship of the treasury is announced. There is something curious about this nomination and its declination. Governor Morgan had declined previous to the notable conference of Grant, Cameron and Logan with the president. Yet he was nominated at their suggestion, as reported, and now persists in his refusal to accept the position. Why was this apparent anxiety to press him into the place? And why was it that the other cabinet nominations were held up until it could be ascertained whether he would accept or decline? Is there a "slate" that will have to be changed—reconstructed as it were—because of his declination? Or was some stock-jobbing or speculating interest to be promoted by prevailing on him to take the place? Perhaps the solution of these questions will be easier after we hear who has been nominated in his stead.

A low bellow from John Bull on account of Secretary Blaine's letter on the Panama canal, is reported by telegraph. Blaine's claim of the superior political interest of the United States in the canal is not acceptable to the nation on whose dominions the sun never sets. The difference is at present one of national sentiment only, not of practical consequence. The two powers are too sensible to be aroused by the exhibits at our exposition, and that great will be the advantage to our people.

ONE OR TWO Washington correspondents, whose ears overshadow all their other accomplishments are suggesting that THE CONSTITUTION AND MR. BAN-the other wished that he had as many sheep as the stars in the sky. "And what would you do with so many sheep?" asked the first castle-builder. "Grazed them on your pasture," answered the second. "No you shouldn't," retorted the first; and from words they came to blows—a combat about as sensible as a national quarrel over the neutrality of the prospective Panama canal, in the event of a war, would be.

QUICKEN PATRIOTISM.

To the adroit politician nothing is easier than the recognition of the merit or strength of his party in every popular demonstration. It is the hopeful outcropping of "the wish of father to the thought." But for a stalwart to claim that his party was strengthened with the people by the assassination of the president who stood in its way, appears to be the extreme of presumption. Such a claim is made by the Albany Evening Journal, which says that "the fact of General Garfield's death and the tragic manner of it so quickened the patriotism of the people, that Governor Foster's majority in Ohio was twice what any one dared predict it would be, and much greater than it probably would have been under other circumstances." If this is really so, would it not be profitable for the stalwart wing to kill off republican presidents whenever they are elected—especially if the extremists find them rather unmanageable? They might always work up some "crank" like Guiteau to do the bloody deed, just as their fierce opposition to President Garfield aroused his ambition to "save the party" by an act of assassination. According to the Evening Journal, the dastardly and murderous act is working out just such results as Guiteau contemplated.

But we do not believe that the president's death and the tragic manner of it has had any such party effect. That would be visiting popular vengeance upon the democratic party for the acts of its opponents. The people of Ohio are slandered by any such imputation. We believe that the republican party in Ohio was undivided and successful, as usual, simply because there was no considerable stalwart element in the leadership there, upon which the people could visit their condemnation.

The courts have already disposed of Mr. Vanderbilt of the railroad which he seized while on a recent pleasure trip to Ohio. This is the way the matter stands now, but we can inform the court that Mr. Vanderbilt will probably visit Ohio again before the season is over—perhaps while on his way to the cotton exposition.

The fact that an entire New England family has been poisoned with arsenic by some friend or kinsman need not disturb any one. We are satisfied the affair is without political significance.

OUR WASTE COTTON SEED.

We cannot too strongly urge upon planters and others an inspection of the machines for hulling cotton seed, now in operation in the exhibition buildings. The awakening of a wide-spread interest in the economy and the appliances for utilizing cotton seed is of such importance that if this result only were attained by the exposition, it would be of almost inestimable value. It is estimated, with apparent good reason, that one-third of the value of the cotton product is lost by the failure to utilize the seed to the best advantage. The great bulk of the seed is now used either as a fertilizer or as feed for stock. It is maintained by chemists and others competent to form a correct judgment, that the hulls are as valuable for fertilization after the expression of the oil as the whole seed; and there can hardly be a doubt that the cake left after the extraction of the oil is a more wholesome food for stock than the raw seed in its natural state; indeed some observing men contend that the raw cotton seed is of but little value as feed, if not really injurious when given too freely. We derive from these statements the conclusion that nothing is lost to the planter, either in the matter of fertilization or that of feed, by the expression of the oil, and that the latter will be so much clear gain.

The full value and all the uses of cotton seed oil have not yet been fully ascertained, because it has not yet been tried for many purposes to which it might be applied if extensively made, fully refined and cheaply sold. That which is manufactured finds a ready sale, we presume chiefly as a lubricant, though its value as an illuminating oil, either alone or in combination with other substances, can hardly be doubted. If it can be sold for as much as the oils now mostly used for such purposes command, many millions of dollars may be added to the value of the cotton crop by the expression of this oil. Once extensively manufactured, it would soon be tried for many mechanical and domestic uses, and if found lacking in some respects the deficiency could no doubt be remedied by better refining or suitable combination. Hardly any commercial material ever attains the full measure of its uses and value when first introduced. Experiment and modification are needed for its perfection. We have the testimony of an Alabama planter, founded upon several years' experience, that he has used the cotton seed oil as a substitute for lard, for culinary purposes and found it well adapted for that use; indeed, he gave it the preference. His statement seems to be very reasonable, and if corroborated by the experience of others the value of this oil will be very great. Its adaptation and use for cooking ought to make a bushel of the seed worth at least four or five pounds of lard, and at the present price of the latter that would be a great gain to the region which now devotes a large proportion of the money received for lint-cotton to the purchase of lard from the west. And who would not prefer a pure, clean vegetable oil to animal grease for cooking, if the oil should be found equally wholesome and palatable, as it is pronounced to be? Its successful application to culinary uses would not only show that those who used to slander our section by the declaration that the negroes of the south were fed on cotton seed had a dim perception of what the future might bring forth, but it would present another riddle somewhat like that of Samson of old, "out of the eater came forth meat, and out of the strong came forth sweetness."

We indulge the hope that a general interest in the better utilization of cotton seed will be aroused by the exhibits at our exposition, and that great will be the advantage to our people.

SOLIOQUY BY D. Davis: "I am not ambitious, but if Chet, would retire into the country and allow me to be president a little while, I think I should be better. More gifted, as it were."

THE YAN now awaits his old-time companion, the opossum.

of the Augusta Chronicle, are influenced by Mr. Hill in their criticisms of Mr. Bayard. This sort of rot is typical. THE CONSTITUTION before now has criticized Mr. Hill, and it proposes to light on all the democratic leaders whenever they deserve criticism. The failure of these leaders during the last fifteen years has been too conspicuous to admit of hero-worship. Criticism is precisely what they need.

THE Milledgeville Union and Recorder says THE CONSTITUTION makes all manner of fun of the duelists because they do not kill each other. This is a mistake. On the contrary, we are very, very angry because the duelists do not kill each other. Especially the first castle-builder. "Grazed them on your pasture," answered the second. "No you shouldn't," retorted the first; and from words they came to blows—a combat about as sensible as a national quarrel over the neutrality of the prospective Panama canal, in the event of a war, would be.

JOHN SHERMAN's friends say he is innocent of the great transgression. If this is true, he opposed the printing of the testimony taken during the treasury investigation in order to secure a fresh advertisement in the newspapers. John could give a circus agent seven hundred yards the start and then overtake him.

GENERAL GRANT has been in Washington for the purpose of giving the president the benefit of his experience in masking cabinets. Grant is valuable mainly because he is not amenable to criticism.

"ATLANTA is ahead," says an exchange. As a matter of course this includes Georgia.

MADISON did a good day's work when he interested Greenby Rain in repudiation. Greenby is not only stamping the state of Virginia, but he is compelling his deputy marshals in the south to contribute to little Billy's campaign fund. The pressure has already reached South Carolina, and if it reaches Georgia, Andy Clark is liable to squeal.

THE attempt to use the bonus bonds as wedge to break up the "solid south" in Georgia will most likely prove a failure. A campaign of this sort would be too one-sided to be exciting.

THE American Recorder assures us that the Atlanta people of south Georgia look with pride upon the leadership of Foster, Sherman, and other friends of Garfield, not under that of politicians like Arthur, Conkling, and the stalwart cabinet-makers, Grant, Cameron and Logan. When the latter go before the country claiming their support as a means of attesting sympathy for the murdered president—appealing to their "patriotism quickened" by assassination—they will be apt to find "other circumstances" and a different result than that in Ohio.

GOVERNORS' DAY.

ARRIVAL OF THE DISTINGUISHED GUESTS.

Programme for Their Reception and Entertainment at Oglethorpe Park—A List of Those Who Will Give Reception and Speeches of Welcome and Response Thereto.

The following programme has been decided upon for the entertainment of the visiting governors who will honor the exposition with their presence to-day:

The executive committee and officers of the exposition will call upon Governor Bigelow, of Connecticut, at the residence of Director General Kimball, at 10 o'clock a.m. precisely.

Following this, they will call upon ex-Governor Marshall Jewell, at the residence of ex-Governor Rufus Bullock. From thence they will call upon other visiting governors at the Kimball house.

They will then, accompanying the visiting governors and other invited guests, proceed by carriages by the way of Marietta and Forsyth streets to the platform of the exposition depot, at the corner of Forsyth street. Here they will embark upon a special train, leaving at 11:30 a.m., city time, for the Oglethorpe park station.

After this time the guests and parties will be under the especial escort of the following members of the executive committee:

ASSIGNMENTS OF COMMITTEE: Governor Bigelow and party—Messrs. R. J. Lowry, R. F. Maddox and Sydney Root.

Governor Hoyt and party—Messrs. E. P. Howell, R. D. Spalding and B. F. Abbott.

Governor Blackburn and party—Messrs. S. M. Inman, E. P. Chamberlin and W. C. Neff.

Governor Haygood and party—Messrs. J. F. Cummings, J. R. Wylie and W. A. Moore.

Governor Jarvis and party—Messrs. B. E. Crane, M. C. Kiser and John A. Flitten.

Ex-Governor Jewell and party—Messrs. Richard Peters, J. L. Hopkins and G. H. Gealey.

Ex-Governor Brox and party—Messrs. J. W. Ryckman, J. C. Peck and T. H. Henderson.

AT THE PARK.

On their arrival at the park depot the several governors and parties will be met by delegations of exhibitors from their respective states, who will assist in the escort of the guests during the inspection of the buildings.

President Colquitt and Director-General Kimball will conduct the guests during the inspection of the buildings and exhibits.

The tour will begin at the northeast entrance to the rotunda of the main building, and will proceed thence through the main building, the carriage repository, the Gambelius hall, the agricultural implements hall, the railroad annex, the minerals and woods and railroad buildings, South Carolina building, via Willimantic model, Georgia chemical works, Avery's building, Baltimore fertilizer exchange building, Florida building, art and industrial pavilion, and thence to the executive offices in judges' hall.

THE SCHOOLS AT THE EXPOSITION.

To-day, by order of the director general and committee of the executive committee, has also been decided a "children's day" for pupils of the public schools, to be held in the exposition. They should take notice, however, that their parents need to mark the gates before 11 o'clock, or they will be shut out. This is the only children's day there will be until Saturday, November 5th. Be on hand at the depot early.

SEEKING FOR SUNKEN MILLIONS.

The Tale of Fabulous Wealth Lost on an English Man-of-War Told Again in an Englishman.

WILMINGTON, Del., October 26.—A special from the Morning News, dated Saturday, says that the International submarine diving company, organized two years ago by capitalists in Philadelphia to search for the Dohrnak, an English steamship which foundered in a storm off Lewes this state, June 10, 1798, has discovered evidences of the missing vessel.

According to papers in possession of Samuel S. McCracken, a pilot, who grandfather was a captain of a ship engaged in capturing the vessel into harbor, about $2,000,000 of specie and jewels went down with her. The money was taken by the Dohrnak from an intercepted Spanish vessel, the Santa Anna, during a successful cruise on the Spanish main. With the vessel foundered the prisoners were in iron on the lower deck and all lost their lives except one, who commanded the vessel and whose body was recovered two days following his burial in St. Peter's churchyard at Lewes. Two years after the wreck the British government sent two frigates to rescue the Dohrnak, but without success.

McCraiken says that the Dohrnak lies in fifteen fathoms of water. The divers found a long, irregular ridge about 15 feet high, 10 feet wide, and 60 feet long, with a hole in the middle, supposed to be caused by the bullet thrown from frigates in the effort to raise the wreck in 1800. Rough weather interfering with further operations, the company was compelled to postpone their work. On Wednesday the divers returned to Philadelphia. The work, however, will be vigorously pushed forward as soon as favorable weather sets in.

RECEPTIONS AT NIGHT.

These receptions have been specially arranged and will be attended by numerous ladies of Georgia and from abroad, who will vie to make them pleasant in every regard.

THE GOVERNORS AT THE MANSION.

The special reception to the visiting governors will be held at the executive mansion, beginning precisely at 8:30 p.m., and concluding at 9:30 p.m., during which interval all the governors will be present as the guests of Governor and Mrs. Colquitt. The officials of the exposition and of the state departments receiving invitations to the reception will take due notice of the hour named.

THE GENERAL RECEPTIONS.

After the governors' hour at the executive mansion, then the mansion and the following residence on Peachtree street will be thrown open to receptions to the governors, visitors, exhibitors and representatives of the press, all of which are cordially invited, without other or further invitation, to be present at any and all of the places herein designated:

1. Governor's mansion—Governor and Mrs. Colquitt and Miss Colquitt.

2. Residence of Colonel W. R. Hill.

10. Residence of George Winship.

In addition to the above, there will be other residences where receptions will be held in order. The names of these will be in the hands of the members of the executive committee.

Members of the executive committee will assist fully in the proper and prompt accomplishment of the foregoing programme.

H. I. KIRKALY, Director-General.

The Visiting Governors.

Governor Bigelow and his party left Augusta last night and reached Atlanta this morning at 5:30 o'clock. They will remain at the depot until 6:45, when Mr. Allison, of the Willimantic company, will go down with carriage for the party. Under his escort they will repair to the Willimantic's headquarters at Judge Wood's handsome residence on Peachtree, where breakfast will be served at 7:30. The carriages will be retained for the day and the party will be carried to the grounds in time for the opening ceremonies. The Willimantic people have made elaborate preparations for the reception to-night and have prepared to meet all their friends whether new or old.

Mr. Kimball received a dispatch last night stating that Governor Hoyt, of Pennsylvania, and Gov. Haygood, of South Carolina, were detained at Charlotte and would not reach the city until 10:30, when they will be pulled in by the fast mail. This delay has been very unfortunate, as it will somewhat delay the opening ceremonies at the exposition grounds. These gentlemen will, however, be met at the depot and carried directly to Oglethorpe park, where the programme will be delayed to await their coming.

Governor Jarvis and Mrs. Jarvis, of North Carolina, reached the city this morning at 2 o'clock. They came in a sleeper and remained in their car during the night.

The Chicago Excursion. Yesterday a special excursion from Chicago reached Atlanta to attend the cotton exposition. The party was not large but so elegant and representative in its character that it was welcomed with great pleasure.

The party arrived at noon and stopped at the exposition hotel. The following is a list of the visitors from the great city of the west:

George S. Bowen, Chicago; Governor William Bros, Chicago Tribune; Hon. W. C. Sullivan, Chicago Evening Journal; Hon. E. B. Helton, Milwaukee; J. H. Bradley; Furst and Bradley manufacturing company, Chicago; P. E. Studebaker, Studebaker Bros, manufacturing company, South Bend, Ind.; A. H. Andrews, school furniture, Chicago; Hon. S. T. Merrill, Merritt & Houston, iron works, Elgin, Ill.; William T. Allen, W. T. Allen & Co., wholesale grocers, Chicago; F. Mehring, Staatz Zeitung, Chicago; B. W. Simpson, Wilcox manufacturing company, Aurora, Ill.; George E. Bowen, Elgin, Ill.; T. H. Hill, state department, Washington; F. Barnard, of Scribner's Magazine.

The party will visit the exposition to-day. It is very much regretted that Governor Culbertson could not come. In his place the genial Carter Harrison, of Chicago, was expected, but at the last moment before the excursion left he ascertained that he could not leave the city, and the distinguished gentlemen in the party from Chicago will have to as touchingly fell from the lips of the crushed bud, ONE WHO LOVED HER.

IN MEMORIAM.

PACE—As the cycle of time rolls noiselessly on, and the bright sun still gladdens the earth, all regardless of the beautiful flowers crushed in their course, thoughts of a lovely one, nipped in the opening bud, rises before me.

Carrie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Pace died at their home, Saturday evening, the 16th, aged 13. Child, as she was, her golden nature won love and admiration from all, and her death leaves a void in many hearts which mingle their tears of sorrow with those of the broken heart. Oh! how meltingly our hearts echo the words of "lower her gently," as touchingly fell from the lips of the crushed mother.

But Carrie is only sleeping calmly, free from the blight of earth's sorrow, where the chalice of sin can never poison her innocent life. May we grieve the helmet of faith, as did the dear child, when her feet touched the cold banks of "The Beautiful River," and when "life's fatal fever" is to meet her in the happy Eden, where the crushed bud, will bloom forever. ONE WHO LOVED HER.

TREASURY TYCOONS.

HOW THE CONTINGENT FUND HAS BEEN USED.

A Republican Organ Charging that Part of the Cost of a Banquet to John Sherman was Credited to a Purchase of Candles—Painting a Private House at Government Expense.

WASHINGTON, October 23.—The Sunday Gazette, an administration organ, has to-day another installment of its continued story regarding "The Treasury Tycoons." The Gazette writer has the following concerning the alleged operations of the present Chief Clerk Power:

"When Power became chief clerk he sent for Custodian Pitney, and told him that the system for the conduct of that office devised by Upton would continue to be the rule. This meant that the purchase of goods, regardless of the statutes, from ring merchants, and the duplication of warrants in payment of certain purchases, would continue. Custodian Pitney refused to be a party to the continuance of this system unless he received a written order for the execution of each irregularity. This demand was acceded to by Power, and the orders were made from time to time, as occasion required. The system thus continued until the exodus of Sherman and the advent of Windom. The ring thought it the proper thing to do to give Sherman a farewell banquet in the basement of the treasury building. No expense was spared to make the occasion one to be remembered by the greatest living financier, who was about to depart. The gloom of his Chicago reverse was to be illuminated by the loyalty of the bureaucrats, who saw in him so much that was admirable; and power, true to the long settled policy of the ring to make somebody else pay, immediately assessed the ring merchants $25 apiece which netted a handsome sum, but not nearly enough to pay the cost of the affair. The balance was paid out of the contingent fund of the treasury department, and the public money so illegally disbursed was credited on the books to a large purchase of sperm candles—forty-five boxes.

"When Windom became secretary, and on the day he first entered his office, he found on his desk a magnificent floral shield, etc., the gifts of Power. So beautiful were these articles that Mr. Windom caused them to be photographed, and he distributed the pictures among his friends. It may afford Mr. Windom a peculiar satisfaction to learn that Power's gifts to him cost $25, and were paid for out of the contingent fund of the treasury department, the amount being credited to a purchase of pot plants. Saul, the florist, made the shield, etc., for Power, and charged $50 for them, but when he found that it was intended for the new secretary of the treasury he generously came down one-half.

"When the so-called Pitney investigation was ordered, Power, swift to scent danger to himself, went to Washington intending to betray his secret, but could not find anyone to do so. Windom had more confidence in Power than he had in Upton, and accordingly gave Power the appointment of the committee and the conduct of the investigation. Having selected a committee, to suit his needs, he sent for Pitney, told him of what was coming, and successfully besought him to tell nothing, by assuring him that the ring would stand or fall together. He also prevailed upon Pitney to suppress the names of the ring leaders, and those received from him in an enumeration of irregular transactions. After getting these orders in his hands, Power became master of the situation, and he so conducted the investigation as to shield all except Pitney, whom from the first he intended to make, and made, the scapegoat of the ring. The investigation progressed far enough to send Pitney out of the treasury department a disgraced man, disgraced for obeying the committee's orders of his general superior, Power, and Upton were the authors of all the irregularities in the custodian's office, and they are still in the treasury department. A merchant who wanted to get in the ring told me that he had frequently offered Pitney presents as a means to such end, but that Pitney always refused his proffered gifts because of his inability to do what the merchant desired, and that he frankly told him that Upton and Power exerted sole control over the treasury.

"As a duplication of warrants in payment of certain purchases, the modus operandi was like the following: The custodian, Pitney, would prepare the warrants for the payment of goods purchased, and lay them on the desk of Power. The clerk in Power's office, whose duty it was to examine such papers, observed that at brief intervals warrants for goods for which warrants had been previously passed and paid were regularly presented. Satisfying himself that he was not in the secret, he reported his discovery to Power. The fact was denied by Power, but he instructed Pitney to thereafter bring all his warrants before him for approval, and such papers never went through the hands of any of Power's clerks after that time. Comment on this matter is unnecessary.

"The latter part of last winter or early last spring, Power, in the statement that preceded the publication of the Senate Select Committee's report, said that he had no departmental library twenty-five bound volumes of Harper's Magazine, old books from Third Auditor of the Treasury Edwin W. Kneightley, paying therefore $12,50 from the contingent fund—an average of nearly $5 a volume for second-hand books, worth not more than $1 a volume in second-hand value. But this is not all. The volumes never reached the library of the treasury department, and no one except Power knows where they went and are. Third Auditor Kneightley wrote to the person for whom he sold the books, a man living in Michigan, as follows:

"WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8, 1881.—I disposed of the books for $12,50. On five volumes he threw off only twenty cents per volume. I would have written you before, but the lack of the inauguration prevented me from doing so."

The Gazette says: "It is a fact which Lamphere, appointment clerk, will not attempt to dispute, that he had his house painted, inside and out, and the floors oiled by an employee of the treasury department, who did the work during office hours, and all the material used was the property of the United States." It may be noted that the above statements are not "democratic lies," but are charges appearing in a republican paper.

MISTAKEN FOR A BURGLAR.

Mr. Vanbibber Tells How He Came to Shoot His Wife.

Andrew Vanbibber, of Cincinnati, testified before Coroner Rendigs, of that city, on Friday, and related how he came to shoot his wife, Susannah Nancy Vanbibber, aged 29 years. He said:

"I was born in this city in November, 1853, was married to Susannah Nancy Vanbibber in February, 1872. On Thursday night last returned home at 7:30 o'clock. Wanted to go to the exposition, but she said to me it was meeting night for the Green Army. I replied, 'I'll go to see the boys, and we would go to the exposition the next night.' The night was dark and rainy, and shucks were rattling. Returned in an hour, and my wife was silent, and she had been ill all evening, she said. Mr. Ross had called, sent by Mr. Ludlow, to have us answer the ban, and found Mrs. Ross at the door too soon; perhaps offended him, and she had a back door open as she closed the front door. I paid no attention to her uneasiness.

We passed a most pleasant evening. She read me a chapter. We retired at 11 p.m., and I was awake perhaps an hour. Heard a door softly opening. I listened a moment; decided not to awaken, and slipped out of bed as gently and quietly as I could. There was a light. I went to the foot of the bed to look for my pistol. Some things had been packed in a drawer, and I had difficulty in finding it, and went to her bed, and was about to look again. This time I found the pistol. I stepped in the sitting room. Front door, which had locked and bolted, was wide open, and gas on the other being turned on full, I felt the socket which the bolt shot into, and found it loose. Never noticed this before. It looked like a former attempt at burglary. She had a nervous start. I thought, 'What if burglar? Thought 't would escape.' I went to the front window, looked out, and then heard my wife, and 'would escape.' I went to the window a half minute, and looked back and saw that the gas below was turned off. I decided the burglar was in the room, and started to run. I had just got out of the front door; was at the window, the room was very dark and the hall still darker. I could not see anyone or anything. I had run out into the little room, and had just come out to enter the sitting room. She saw me running across the room, and ran down toward the door with my pistol, and she was frightened; said I looked dangerous, and that she tried to spring back into the little room, and I said, 'Don't be afraid, I'm going to say, "We're not coming." I fired simultaneously as she began to speak, and did not hear her. I never was jealous of my wife. She was a perfect lady. My wife and I thought it best to let either her mother or mine know of it, for she said it would worry them to death. I wrote to her brother the full particulars, and she wrote fully to Dr. Whitaker, also to Mrs. Jenkins."

The coroner rendered a verdict to the effect that Mrs. Vanbibber came to her death at the hands of her husband, but he was unable to determine from the testimony whether the shooting was done accidentally or otherwise.

A Physician's Advice of How to Gain Health.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 30, 1881.

Nothing is more charming and attractive than a thoroughly healthy, well-formed woman; a bright-eyed, rosy, laughing, joyous, happy-faced girl, one who finds pleasure in merely living. An invalid wife or mother is a constant object of sympathy in an otherwise contented household. Happy the home whose womenfolk enjoy perfect health. In my practice I have always recommended the use of Brown's Iron Bitters. In case of irregularities, dyspepsia, indigestions, heartburn, nausea, sore throat, nervousness and exhaustive debility, I find that it exceeds all other remedies as a true medicinal tonic. It never fails to gently soothe, refresh and strengthen the general system, and especially those parts made weak by continued distress; and what satisfies me most is, that the cures, although in some instances gradual, are always permanent. —M. THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, OCTOBER 27, 1881.

LOCAL TIN-TYPES

FROM OUR REPORTERS' POCKET CAMERAS.

Yesterday in the City—What was Done and Said by Home-Folks and Strangers—The Gossip of the Town as Taken on the Fly—Is and About the Courts and Departments.

STEALING A WATCH.—The bed-room of Mr. Richmond Dorman, at 311 Hunter street, was entered last night and a valuable silver watch was stolen therefrom.

IN THE CALABOOSA.—Ben Willingham Johnson is yet in the calaboose, where he has been since his return to Atlanta. Up to the present he had no preliminary trial, and if he is not soon removed to the Fulton county jail his limbs will become stiff from the close confinement.

GETTING READY.—The Fifth artillery is preparing for an early removal from Atlanta, despite the rumors to the contrary. It can not be said just when the post will be abandoned, but those in position to know, say that it will not be much later than the first of November.

SIXTY-TWO DAYS.—Judge Glenn yesterday sent six persons to the rock pile. They go up for sixty-two days work all told, and are W. F. Wischart, who will serve 10 days; James Conway, 10 days; Tyne Wyly, 4 days; John Quinn, 30 days; C. Connor, 4 days; Jerry Taylor, 4 days.

SENT TO JAIL.—Peter Brown was yesterday arraigned before Judge Tanner upon a warrant charging him with carrying concealed weapons. The evidence sustained the charge and Peter was sent to jail, where he will remain until the grand jury can investigate his offense.

STEALING A COAT.—Officers Lynch and Thompson yesterday arrested Green Simons, against whom they bring the charge of larceny. The complainant avers that Simons stole a coat from him, while Simons declares that the complainant was indebted to him and left the coat as a security for the debt. The case will have an investigation to-day.

DISMISSED.—Adela Green was yesterday arrested upon a warrant charging her with assault and battery. The complainant was Salie Peyton, who alleged that Adela had induced her children to resist her on Rhodes' street, and that after they had entered the house she whipped them with a large stick. Subsequent to the arrest the case was amicably adjusted and the warrant dismissed.

STATEMENT.—Four individuals are now in the calaboose awaiting the pleasure of the arresting officers who have booked them for suspicion. Sherman Mathews was arrested by Officers McWilliams and Weaver; H. Branberry, by Officers Stroud and Starnes; Jerry Baily, by Officers Holland and Green; and Will Brodton, by Officer Brooks. They are thought to be escaped convicts.

BEFORE THE GRAND JURY.—Mike Nurnan, Lewis Nichols and Harry Benjont, the three young men who were arrested Tuesday last upon the charge of robbing two rooms at the National hotel by Captain Starnes and Officers Moss and Crim are yet in the calaboose. They will not be taken before a justice of the peace for a committal trial, but the charge will be investigated by the grand jury this week.

AT THE FIFTH BAPTIST CHURCH.—To-night the Fifth Baptist church will be crowded by many friends who desire to aid in enriching the treasury. A most elaborate programme has been prepared, and the concert will be a success. The best musical talent in the city has been secured, and the entertainment will be a success. In addition to the singing there will be recitations by some of Atlanta's most popular amateurs.

OCT AGAIN.—The many friends of Mr. P. A. Spyers, of the stationers, keepers, and glaziers, will be again, after a long and severe illness. Under the management of Messrs. Spyers and Buchanan, Atlanta's best stationers is in a better condition than ever before. The prisoners are humanely treated by them, and the records are kept in a nice and legible condition, something that has not happened since the days of Major Cook.

BURGLARY.—Mr. Simon Jennings's residence, 237 West Hunter street, was entered yesterday morning during the temporary absence of the family, and a roll of a dozen vase, silver watch and some clothing. A negro man, known as Jack Devers is absent, about thirty years of age, heavy frame, wears a black mustache and had on when last seen a black coat, dark pants and a white straw hat.

BRUTAL ASSAULT.—About 2 o'clock yesterday evening Mr. James Johnson, who clerks at Mayson's grocery house on Marietta street, was knocked on the head by Alf Calo, an ex-contracted bodyguard. It appears that Calo insulted Mr. Johnson and intended to strike him with a rock, when Mr. Johnson knocked him down. Calo as he arose grabbed a rock which he had at his adversary and which struck him near the left temple. The rock was a hard one and Mr. Johnson sank to the ground almost lifeless. He was picked up and carried into a store, where his wound was dressed. The blood flowed profusely from an ugly gash made by the stone just in the rear of the temple. Mr. Johnson will carry a colored eye for several days to come.

ESCAPED CONVICTS.—Chief Connolly was yesterday informed of the escape of two convicts from the North Georgia railroad campment. They are Charles Porter and Elija Anderson. Porter is a mulatto 32 years of age, weighs 178 pounds and is five feet ten inches high. His face is slightly pock marked and on his left arm the goddess of liberty is tattooed. He is well built, wore a mustache and is maimed one thumb. Anderson is 35 years of age, 6 feet tall, weighs 163 pounds and has a dark ginger-cake color. His right eye is out. He is spare made and wears a mustache and light chin whiskers. A reward of two hundred and twenty-five dollars is offered for their capture.

REVIEWS.—A large and brilliant audience assembled at DeGivie's opera house last night to witness a rendition of the above comedy. The audience evinced by an enthusiastic approval its appreciation. As Quilton Driver (quill driver), an interviewer, born phenom, with a vivid imagination, but a brain in the right place. Mr. Nobles portrayed a fine character, representing a newspaper bohemian, a creature of circumstances, at home in all spheres of society, a peer to all with whom he comes in contact, and one who, by his brilliancy of intellect, captivates and attracts attention from those in every position in life. The editor as he is, furnishing the news of state up to the best hints of cupid, support is exceedingly good. From Mortimer (the banker) and Mr. Schwartz (Stein) to the attractive Miss Dollie

Woodbine Nobles and Miss Ida Lewis, all are excellent.

A repetition of "Interviews" to-night, and Milton Nobles's engagement, which has been a successful one, closes.

A DESERVED ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.—The Richmond Dispatch has the following:

The examining committee of the Richmond and Danville railroad company, with their invited guests, having assembled in their special car, near Richmond, on their return home, October 1, 1881, adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the gentlemen department and fidelity in duty of the respective officers and agents of the Richmond and Danville, the North Carolina, and the Atlantic and Charlotte Air Line railroads, who have had our special train in charge, have impressed us most favorably with their conduct, not only in regard to a disagreeable incident in a run of 418 miles, and we tender to them individually and collectively, a unanimous verdict.

Resolved, That we tender to Colonel Forester, Mr. Morris, and other citizens, cordial thanks for hospitality shown us at Atlanta.

WILLIAM B. ISAACS, Chairman.

ROBERT T. HUBBARD, Secretary.

—Mr. Walter F. Adams, of Westboro, Mass., writes: "For years I suffered the horrors of dyspepsia and indigestion. They seemed to weaken every organ of life, and completely shattered my nervous system. At night when I lay down I felt I could not live until morning. Heartburn pains me most terribly. I tried Brown's Iron Bitters; it suited my case perfectly, but did not cure me. I then tried various kinds of food, and my sallow complexion and other symptoms of ill health are all gone, and at night I enjoy most refreshing, dreamless sleep."

—ASHBURNHAM, Mass., January 14, 1880.—I have been very sick over two years. They all gave me up, as past cure. I tried the most skilful physicians, but they did not reach the worst part. The lungs and heart would fill up every night and distress me, and my throat was very bad. I told my children I never should die in peace until I had tried Hop Root. I took it, and it worked wonders. It has helped me very much indeed. I am now well. There was a lot of sick folks here who have seen how they helped me, and they used them and are cured, and feel as thankful as I do that there is so valuable a medicine made.

Liquid or Dry.

Some people prefer to purchase medicine in the dry state so that you can see for themselves that they are purely vegetable. Others have not the time or desire to prepare the medicine, and wish it already to use.

To accommodate each class the proprietors of Kidney-Wort now offer that well-known remedy in both liquid and dry forms.

Sold by druggists everywhere.—Truth.

—The Rev. Gavin Lang, of the Church of Scotland, the other day condemned in a speech the principle of keeping Protestant churches closed on week days, thus preventing people from resorting to them for devotional purposes.

—Health Case.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its power in removing the effects of consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold in a guaranteed form, no doctor need ever care to prescribe it. It never causes any disturbance, and stays to try it. Price 10 cents, 50 cents and $1. If your lungs are sore, Chest or Back Lane, use Shiloh's Porous plaster. Price 25 cents. Sold by all druggists everywhere.—Truth.

—Lord Lorne is coming back from England to attend the Canadian parliament in January.

—What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that most terrible disease consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the winter to run the risk of getting it.

We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your Cough. It never fails. This explains why so many millions of bottles have sold past year. It cures Croup and Whooping Cough once. Mothers do not be without it. For Lame Back, Side or Chest use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by all druggists.

—ASTHMA

Quickly and Permanently

CURED

Dr. Stump's Asthma Remedy is unequalled as a positive Alternative and Cure for Asthma and Dyspepsia.

It does not merely relieve the symptoms of the disease.

Mrs. R. Lee, of Belmont, O., says of it: "I am surprised at the speedy effects of your remedy. It is the first time I have had such a rapid and complete cure and made expectoration easy. I now sleep well without coughing." If your druggist does not keep it, send for treatment.

SEVEN-UP.

A Nice Little Game With a Bad Ending.

This morning about half-past one a big row occurred at Mechanicsville. Several negro men had congregated at George Martin's house and were enjoying a quiet game of seven-up, when a dispute arose between Martin and Henry Thomas. In the quarrel Martin called Thomas a liar and was known down for his words. Those present then attempted to recall the disturbance, but finally became involved themselves and a big row was the result. Frank Handy, one of the participants, was badly cut across the left breast, while Charley White, another one, received several cuts about the face and shoulders. The police are not investigating the affair, but so far no arrests have been made.

Pocket Picked.

Yesterday evening one of Atlanta's detectives was robbed. For several days past he has been on the still hunt, and yesterday visited the exposition grounds for the purpose of investigating a matter. On his return to the city a member of the light-fingered fraternity succeeded in slipping his watch from his vest pocket, and now the detective wonders where his watch is.

GENTS FOR BUTTE RICK'S PATTERNS!

ONE OF THE OLD GUARD.

A Veteran Who Declared the United States a Despotic Country.

DETROIT, Ind., October 26.—Two weeks ago Officer Mitchell, of Greensboro, Pa., quietly arrested an old man in Fort Wayne, and hurried off with him to Greensboro, to answer the charge of burglary, which it was alleged that he had obtained the sum of $2,500 from the trunk of Mr. George Grunke.

"My name is Joseph Brovinski," he said. "I am a native of Poland, and am legal heir to a noble estate near Warsaw. I was born in 1789, and will be 92 years of age on the 12th day of next December. I fought for the great Napoleon, in Pontotowki's command, until that prince was drowned at Leipzig, when I was transferred to my request to Colonel Garde's command, in Marshal Grouchy's corps, and hence was deferred from taking part in the immediate battle of Waterloo. After Napoleon was banished I remained in France about four years, during which time my father died. Soon after his death his estates were seized, and though I had every conceivable plan to get some portion of their value, I failed, and they are to-day held by a Russian nobleman. Canicourt, through the friends he had made while minister to Russia, made every effort to encompass my object for me, but without success.

In 1859 I came to America and associated myself with Dr. Inskip of Alleghany as a veterinary surgeon. I was from that time until 1863 periodically in Alleghany and Jersey City; at this latter date I lost all the money I had, and in 1870 was arrested in Erie for harboring and sent to prison for debt in Perryopolis. I served my time and was freed in 1873 a broken down old man. I did not give my proper name there, but I am proud to say that I was the only Pole in that prison. It was my intention to procure assistance through the French consul of New York, and return to France, where I have a son living, but I was deterred by various considerations. I went to Philadelphia and lived there, practicing as veterinary surgeon, until last August, when I received a considerable amount of money from a wealthy man, and, while there met two men who had known me in prison, and it was through them that suspicion was attached to me. They failed to make any case against me, and I am on my way to Chicago. I expect to go back to France in November, and I shall never, never leave her shores again. Next to Russia, the United States government is the most despotic in the world."
